

Score

WEEK 2

COUP D'ÉTAT

Division winner Donny from last year fell hard to Drew in France this weekend

DR*WS IN PARIS 152.70 ALLEN OF ARRAKIS 139.32

Easy Street

DREW IN 1ST WITH 2ND LOWEST
AVERAGE PA DREW ALLEN, A1

Still Churning

VINTAGE AK PERFORMANCE
PUTS MIKE ON TOP BERDOS, C2

Nervous Finish

JACK BARELY WINS IN SPITE OF BAD GOFF PLAY BERDOS, C2

JENNETTE IN EARLY TROUBLE AS GEESE TAKE VICTORY LAP ON FIRST WIN; KYLE SNEAKY SUCKS. C1

Sports

THE BERDOS GAZETTE WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 18, 2024

DR*WS IN PARIS 152.7, ALLEN OF ARRAKIS 139.32

Gaggle	122
Bucky	117

Menace	190
CHAM	143

Neigh	198
Big Berd	111

H.T.G!	149
MSexT	127

Who's In Paris?

The fellas take down Josh Allen and co.

Picked up the pieces of Berdos's team as half his squad ends up in the infirmary...

■ Big weekend for the Berdos haters, of which there are many. All of a sudden he's starting Brandin Cooks, Ty Chandler, and Cole Kmet. I still do think his floor isn't as bad as people think, but his trade pieces are looking slimmer and slimmer. Maybe we see him flip an elite piece who still holds some value for 3 mid tier players? I doubt it.

DREW ALLEN

■ Don't fret, Jennette and Kyle. Two of our winners in the past started 0-2.

■ Let's talk about Kyle a bit more. I mentioned it last week, but now we have a bit bigger sample size. Has the shine worn off finally? Don't get it twisted, his spot at 9th place in the league is warranted. He has the 9th best all play record, AJ Brown is out for a few weeks, Patrick Mahomes's aDOT is lower than it's ever been, and Sam LaPorta has turned into George Kittle rather than Travis Kelce (that's not a Kittle knock, but it speaks to his ceiling being lower). Imagine if he didn't make the Zay Flowers trade? He'd be starting Christian Kirk, Terry McLaurin, and Diontae Johnson. As of now, he is looking to be in serious trouble.

■ Dogs were barking this weekend. If you bet 10 on a Holden/Michael parlay, your local bookie would be down 150 bucks (though Michael's original odds were skewed by CMC in the lineup). Holden winning as a +400 underdog was the biggest underdog win we've ever had by far.

■ JK Dobbins is this year's Raheem Mostert. Not sure if it's enough to keep Holden out of the toilet bowl though.

James Cook is the only bright spot for Kyle recently

■ Not to spoil any rankings, but this is the first week that Berdos will be in the bottom 5 in poll history. Not really surprising though.

■ I was listening to a podcast today and they were talking about coaches on the hot seat. It got me thinking, how many times would we have gotten fired over the years. Let's dive in.

Drew: Yes. 100%. You do not go 0-14 and stick around. I'd imagine that his interim head coach was the guy who pulled out the victories in the toilet bowl. You can maybe make the argument that his two titles may hold some weight with the front office, but a 0 win season is inexcusable.

Andrew: Yes, unless you're saying I am Dan Campbell and get a really long leash like he has with the lions. But in all reality, I would've been gone a few years ago.

Jack: Maybe. Losing the toilet bowl to a seriously inferior team in Harrison could have been the nail in the coffin. But if he was able to stick around past that, his job security would be safe.

Jennette: Yes. Like Doug Pederson with the Eagles, one title only gets you so far.

Donny: Yeah. In general, I think if you're digging a hole, that should be the end of the line for you as a coach. Some success recently doesn't change that.

Berdos: Nope. I even think he may get a bit of a leash this year too. I view it like the Rams; as long as ownership is okay with him going all in, he'll get a shot to build it back up somehow.

Kyle: Maybe. Actually, on second thought, yeah. Yeah no, no owner is letting you lose 4 in a row.

Brian: Maybe not. I know I said earlier the hole digging is fatal, but there was enough pieces around to maybe stave off ownership. The seat is certainly hot right now though.

Go Cardinals!! Woo!

Michael: Nope. Seat may have gotten warm at times, but not hot.

Holden: Yeah. He was gone around week 8 of last year.

■ Now all of us as GM's would likely have been fired at some point. Lots of baffling decisions made over the years, but hopefully we've been getting better at them as time passes.

■ Am I a good bragger? A bad bragger? I didn't know you could be a good or a bad bragger.

■ Need someone to do a study on texts sent in the chat vs their placement in the standings.

Standings

Awesome

Team	Record	GB
1. Dr*ws In Paris	2-0	-
2. Allen of Arrakis	1-1	1
3. The Fantasy Menace	1-1	1
4. Chameleons	1-1	1
5. Big Bucky Hunter	0-2	2

Fail

Team	Record	GB
1. The Neigh Sayers	2-0	-
2. Big Berd	1-1	1
3. The Gaggle Strikes Back	1-1	1
4. HOT TUA GO!	1-1	1
5. Medellin Sex Tourists	0-2	2

WEEK 2

Rank	Team	Week 1 Rank	Rank Change
1	 The Fantasy Menace	3	+2	21
2	 The Neigh Sayers	6	+4	20
3	 Allen of Arrakis	2	-1	10
4	 Medellin Sex Tourists	5	+1	3
5	 Chameleons	7	+2	0
6	 The Gaggle Strikes Back	4	-2	-3
7	 Dr*ws In Paris	9	+2	-6
8	 Big Berd	1	-7	-9
9	 HOT TUA GO!	10	+1	-15
10	 Big Bucky Hunter	8	-2	-21

PERFECT LINEUP
		AWESOME	FAIL
PTS	POS	TM	PLAYER
34.54	QB	BUCK	KYLER MURRAY*
43.00	RB	NEIG	ALVIN KAMARA
28.00	RB	MST	JAMES COOK
27.00	WR	HTG	MARVIN HARRISON JR.
23.90	WR	DREW	DK METCALF
23.70	WR	HTG	MALIK NABERS
17.10	TE	NEIG	GEORGE KITTLE
26.00	OFX	HONK	DE'VON ACHANE
22.50	PK	MNCE	KA'IMI FAIRBAIRN
21.75	DL	ARRA	AIDAN HUTCHINSON*
22.50	LB	ARRA	FRED WARNER
18.00	DB	MNCE	JESSIE BATES
16.50	DFX	MNCE	MAXX CROSBY
324.49

ALVIN

KAMARA

KEON

COLEMAN

MICHAEL

GALETTA

Bubba's Bus

- On the Beat -

Bubba Beans

Hey folks! Welcome back aboard! This week we went zooming down I-5 to Inglewood, CA to catch up with our LA Friends! Talks around the stadium this week continued to be about Brian's questionable decision to bench Herbert. As it eventually turned out it wouldn't matter but gol-ly sure not a great look to leave your (former?) QB1 on the bench and start what is now a 4-way QB controversy at practice.

Now Brian wasn't the only one leaving points on the bench, Andrew also left "WR1" QJ on his bench. My oh my we saw him in line at the local Carney's this week and he was sure looking hungry. 2 Tuddies Please! Order up! Now he'll be making a case to get into the starting lineup after a barrage of injuries hit the league in Week 2. Not everyone on the Chargers was benched however, Drew whipped out his Dicker and got rewarded with a missed XP! On the whole not a horrible day for the Kicker and surviving a missed XP and still earning a win is a good week. Let's see here Kyle played Derwin James, he didn't do much, but Coop did start 3 Chargers this week! We caught up with the West Coast Commish to get his thoughts on this trio.

Mr. Commish, Bubba Beans here, we're out in LA this week and wanted to hear from our West Coast Commish. You started the most Chargers this week and were also able to get a win. How much faith do you have in Dobbins, Bosa, and Mack?

Mr. West Coast Commish – "Well Bubba, have to say I'm delighted to have you in town. We took a flyer on Bosa and Dobbins this year, both have had well documented injury woes but we always believed the talent was still there. We brought in a healing reiki from Australia under the advice of Butter's Better Booty and Body Agency, and he's done wonders. We could only afford him for the Chargers players though, he refused to go to Miami. Something about "bad vibes" and Miami being the "home of the devil". Mack has been very consistent the last few years and we have $6 worth of faith he'll return to form.

Bubba – "We also know Kupp is now likely headed to the IR, is there officially blood in the water for Team Berd?"

Mr. West Coast Commish – "Kupp on the IR is a brutal loss for a team already struggling to fill the void left by Christian McCaffrey. Now Berdos is an adaptable man, we've seen this many a time – like when Chubb went down last year. He always seems to swing a trade or pick the right FA off the waivers, and there's a buffet of serviceable wideouts to pick from this week. That said, the draft pick vault is beginning to run dry. He's going to have to really be creative here to stave off the beckoning hole, especially with both Drew and Holden actually looking like real teams this week."

Bubba – "Last question here, the Rams are now 0-2, they are without their biggest two receivers and the TE Donny started this week should've been rostered on the Middlesex Longhorns. What are the rumblings in town? Are the Rams officially RamChops?"

Mr. West Coast Commish – "The Rams are certainly in trouble, losing your top two receivers is never a good start to the year. They're going to have to really rely on the run game here, which is luckily their specialty. The town...doesn't really care. Look around you Bubba, not a Rams jersey in sight. Not a Chargers jersey either. The only football team that matters in Los Angeles plays in Las Vegas, that that's the bottom line." Mr. Cooper it was great catching up with you and as we saw once the Zaps left town they managed to kill the Cats in Charlotte, 26-3. From what I hear...everyone saw that one coming, and nobody seemed to care. Oh and Commish, thanks for the Venice Beach recommendation! Ocean Front Kitchen was delicious, those Fish Tacos were phenomenal!

We didn't have to go too far in our media coverage this week for team #2 as the Rams were close by prior to heading out on their own much shorter road trip to Glendale, AZ. We're going to get right into it with the biggest story this week in LA as Cooper Kupp was so magnanimously pronounced last week by infamous owner John Berdos, "forgot to let you guys know he was fucking back". Well 4 catches later he is "fucking back" on the shelf. Nice jinx there pal, that ship is sinking. Let's talk a little more though about some of these rostered players on the Rams. They're having a tough go of it early on this year with Puka and now Coopa out for extended time. Kyle made the right decision to continue to let Stafford rot on the bench, unfortunately his starter wasn't able to provide too much more in support. Kyren Williams however was showing us in practice this week that he is making his case to be the only startable asset on the Rams offense. Drew benefited from that while Donny's starting TE proved to belong on Andrew's beer league football team... Colby Parkyoassonthebenchinson. Besides that, not too much to report from a dismal display in the desert. The horned sheep left LA a hopeful team and return covered in Cardinal shit. Red birds win 41-10.

The bus rolls on next week to Sin City and the desert! Toot toot! See ya then!

Bubba Beans and his first truck!